Bardakhanova Champkins is an Anglo-Russian architecture practice, international in outlook, and working in both the United Kingdom, Russia and Europe.

The practice relishes constraints and firmly believe that, by a close understanding of needs and ambitions, creative solutions can be developed that bring genuine benefit and value, irrespective of scale. This is rooted in a deeply held desire to propose, and then build, interventions or buildings that demonstrate a rigorous understanding of material construction, the social, economic and environmental sustainability of a project and richness of spatial experience.
